

Shalom!!

It's a delight to make your acquaintance. I'm Jerehmiel, hailing from Jerusalem, nestled close to the Temple Mount. Growing up in this sacred city, I was steeped in teachings about the House of David and the Mosaic Law since childhood. My dedication to the living God is unwavering; I serve Him with my whole heart.

My calling extends beyond personal devotion—I extend care and empathy to the numerous pilgrims who flock to the Holy Land, eager to delve into the history of our Father and humankind. Presently, I work within the government, specifically at the unemployment office. It's a role where I strive to offer a glimmer of hope to those who've lost their way. One touching tale that comes to mind involves a young man who sought assistance, struggling to support his wife and children. Witnessing the loss of livelihood in situations like these can be emotionally challenging, yet I always include these individuals in my prayers. Thankfully, assistance came through for him, providing the means to sustain his family.

When I'm not engaged in my duties, I find solace and purpose in volunteering at local food banks. There's an indescribable fulfillment in extending a helping hand to those facing adversity. The faces I encounter there, each with their unique stories and struggles, remind me of the inherent dignity in offering support to fellow beings. It's not merely about distributing food; it's about sharing warmth, empathy, and a glimmer of hope with every person who walks through those doors.

My prayers are steadfast, reaching out for the well-being of each individual within this magnificent creation crafted by the living God. May their hearts find solace, their needs be met, and their journey be illuminated with blessings and grace.
